Introduction

The Government is committed to promoting the welfare and development of all our young children. Good quality care and education in the early years raise educational standards and opportunities, and enhance children’s social development.

The National Childcare Strategy was launched in 1998 to expand childcare services. The Government is determined that all childcare services, be they new or established, provide a secure and safe environment for children, not least so that parents can have confidence that their children are well looked after.

In 1999 the Government announced that in England day care providers and childminders caring for children under the age of eight years old would be regulated by a new Early Years Directorate within the Office for Standards in Education (Ofsted).

ABOUT THE NATIONAL STANDARDS

The National Standards represent a baseline of quality below which no provider may fall. However, they are also intended to underpin a continuous improvement in quality in all settings.

There are 14 National Standards. Each Standard describes a particular quality outcome, and is accompanied by a set of supporting criteria giving information about how that outcome is to be achieved. The criteria are matched to each of five different types of day care and childminding provision:

- Full day care;
- Sessional day care;
- Crèches;
- Out of school care;
- Childminders.

In addition, a number of annexes have been attached where appropriate, explaining how the criteria will be applied to overnight care, facilities caring for babies and open access schemes.

Regulations under the Children Act require providers (technically the registered person in each registered setting) to meet the 14 Standards. The regulations also require providers to have regard to the supporting criteria. Ofsted is required to have regard to both the Standards and the supporting criteria, and is responsible for issuing guidance on how the outcomes required by the National Standards may be achieved.
The National Standards do not override the need for providers to comply with other legislation such as that covering health and safety, food hygiene, fire or planning requirements.

The National Standards apply to new childcare providers who have applied to Ofsted for registration after 2 July 2001, and to all other providers with effect from 1 September 2001. The Standards and supporting criteria will be reviewed within two years to ensure that they remain up to date.
NATIONAL STANDARDS

Out of school care

Definition

Facilities that provide day care for children under eight which operate during one or more of the following periods:

- before school
- after school
- during the school holidays.

The total care provided is for more than 2 hours in any day and for more than five days a year.

A main purpose of the provision is to look after children in the absence of their parents. This form of care can include children from three years old and children over eight may use it.

E.g. summer camps, holiday play schemes, breakfast clubs, after school clubs.

Open access schemes are included. These may be permanent or short-term schemes and generally cater for older children, however, children aged 5–7 may attend. The main purpose of the provision is to provide supervised play opportunities for children in a safe environment in the absence of their parents. Criteria which do not apply to Open Access Schemes are marked with an asterisk and alternative criteria are given in Annex A.

Whenever the word “parent” is used in this document, it should be taken to mean parent or carer.

1.1 The registered person complies with all conditions of registration, including any which require them to submit to a vetting procedure whereby the information supplied is verified with the relevant sources.

The vetting procedure, which includes police checks, will enable the early years child care inspector to determine the suitability of those caring for, or having regular contact with, children. If the registered person fails to comply with such a condition the early years child care inspector may, amongst other things, take this into account in determining their suitability.

1.2 The registered person, their staff and volunteers have not been convicted of an offence or been the subject of an order which disqualifies them from registration under regulations made under schedule 9A of the Children Act 1989.

Where disqualification arising from an offence carries a time-limit in the regulations, and that time-limit has expired, or where an offence mentioned in the regulations made under schedule 9A was not subject to a qualifying sentence, or where the person is or has been the subject of an order mentioned in the Disqualification for Caring for Children Regulations 1991, in determining the suitability of the registered person the early years child care inspector will have regard to all circumstances of the offence or order. Factors will include the date of offence or order, the type of offence or order, the degree of culpability of the person and the person’s activity and involvement with children since the offence or order.

1.3 The registered person ensures that any person who has not been vetted is never left alone with children.
